DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-53 are pending in this application.

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on June 7, 2005 was noted and the submission is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the examiner has considered the information disclosure statement.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-13 and 26-53 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-47 of copending Application No. 10/612,920. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both copending applications are directed towards a nail varnish composition comprising, in a cosmetically acceptable medium and at least one film-forming polymer. The difference between the two-copending applications is the functional language. Since the compositions can be the same in each application, the claimed functional limitations could be present in the other application. For example, the nail abrasion limitation of '916 would also be present in the composition of '920, since the compositions as claimed can be the same.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by de la Poterie (US 6,113,925).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

de la Poterie discloses a method of forming a film, which may be used as a nail varnish comprising a film former in an aqueous medium (abstract). Column 4, lines 25-40 disclose the film-forming materials such as polyurethane, acrylic, vinylic or styrene-acrylic polymers and that the film-formers can be present in an amount ranging from 2% to 60%. Additional additives, adjuvants, excipients, etc. can be added to the composition such as organic solvents i.e. ketenes (col. 3, lines 25-26), pigments (col. 4, lines 60-62) and UV screening agents, preservatives or wetting agents (col. 5, lines 6-16). The examples teach using SANCURE® as a film-former, since SANCURE® is a known polyurethane then it would have all the properties as claimed by applicant. The functional language as claimed by applicant would be inherent to the composition of de la Poterie as the prior art teaches the same composition.

4. Claims 1-24 and 47-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Leuridan et al. (US 6,372,201).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Leuridan et al. discloses a nail varnish composition comprising an aqueous dispersion of acrylic polymers having a glass transition temperature of greater than or equal to 45°C (abstract). Column 2, lines 7-21 teach various examples of acrylic polymers that can be used in the composition. Column 3, line 10, teach the use of a plasticizer and column 3, line 66 through column 4, line 4 teach additional additives that can be employed in the formulation. The functional language as claimed by applicant would be inherent to the composition of Leuridan et al. as the prior art teaches the same composition.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Applicant has provided evidence in this file showing that the invention was owned by, or subject to an obligation of assignment to, the same entity as 10/612,920 at the time this invention was made, or was subject to a joint research agreement at the time this invention was made. However, reference 10/612,920 additionally qualifies as prior art under another subsection of 35 U.S.C. 102, and therefore, is not disqualified as prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(c).

Applicant may overcome the applied art either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that the invention disclosed therein was derived from the invention of this application, and is therefore, not the invention "by another," or by antedating the applied art under 37 CFR 1.131.

6. Claims 1-13 and 26-53 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over copending Application No. 10/612,916, which has a common inventor and assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the copending application, it would constitute prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) if published or patented. This provisional rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) is based upon a presumption of future publication or patenting of the conflicting application.

This provisional rejection might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the copending application was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by a showing of a date of invention for the instant application prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the copending application under 37 CFR 1.131. This rejection might also be overcome by showing that the copending application is disqualified under 35 U.S.C. 103(c) as prior art in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a). See MPEP § 706.02(l)(1) and § 706.02(l)(2).

Conclusion

7. Claims 1-53 are rejected.
